Nova Scotians who have already passed some of the 2002 Canadian GED® Test Series can apply to the Adult Education Division to have the tests recognized through a Prior Learning Assessment and Recognition (PLAR), until May 2027. A maximum of 4 tests can be recognized for exemption.

To avoid delays in receiving your credential, it is recommended to request PLAR during the registration process for your CAEC candidate/test applicant account. More information about PLAR, including eligibility criteria and application requirements can be requested by emailing CAEC@novascotia.ca

You may be required to submit additional information including a medical diagnosis or written reports.
